- The Kearney Public Library Advisory Board recognizes that public relations involve every person who has any connection with the library. The board urges its own members and every staff member to realize that he/she represents the library in every public contact. Good service/representation supports good public relations.

3. LIBRARY SERVICES POLICY

3.1. Borrowing Privileges

- Non-residents will be issued library cards at no cost. This includes all University of Nebraska at Kearney students.
- Applications for library cards must be completed by the applicant or a parent/guardian. Identification that shows proof of current address is required. Identification must include a valid driver's license or other photographic identification. In the case that the photographic identification does not include a current address, other identification is required, such as a personalized check blank, or a utility bill.
- A parent/guardian must be present when a patron age 17 or younger applies for her/his first library card.
- Applications for agency library cards may be issued to businesses, agencies, and institutions requesting borrowing privileges. The application must be completed by an agency representative. The representative will then assume all borrower responsibilities for this card.

3.2. Borrower Responsibilities

- Patrons are responsible for all materials borrowed on their card, including payment of fines or charges incurred. Parents/guardians are responsible for all materials checked out by a patron age 17 or younger.
- Patrons age 16 or older must present their library card or a valid photo I.D. each time library material is borrowed.
- Patrons age 15 or younger may use library services without a library card by providing identification such as a birth date.
- Patrons are responsible for notifying the library promptly of any loss/theft of library card.
- Patrons age sixteen or older must possess a library card in order to use an Internet computer. A valid photo I.D. may be presented if the users do not have their library card with them.
- A guest-pass may be granted to visitors age 18 and older who need to use an internet computer and to visitors age seventeen and younger with a parent present. Anyone still using a guest-pass after thirty days is expected to apply for a library card.
- Replacement cards are free.

3.3. Circulation Policies

- All materials may be used within the library, free of charge.
- Materials may be borrowed only with a library card in good standing.
- All renewals are dependent on waiting requests. Items with waiting requests cannot be renewed.
- Current issues of periodicals do not circulate.
- Reference materials do not circulate. This includes materials housed at the library but owned by another individual or organization.
- Check with a division head or supervisor before loaning any materials not covered in this manual.
- Librarians do not have the time to conduct extensive and in-depth research. What constitutes extensive and in-depth research is at the discretion of the librarian.

3.4. Fines and Charges

- The library does not charge late fines. Patrons who have overdue items may not check out until the overdue items are renewed or returned. Items may be renewed twice unless they are requested by another patron.

3.5. Claimed Returned Status

- If a patron believes that material shown as checked out to them has been returned, library staff may change the status of the item(s) to claimed returned.
- By changing the item to claimed returned, the patron and the library agree to search for the item over the next 30 days. Having materials on claimed return status does not prevent the patron from continuing to check out other materials.
- At the end of the 30-day period, if the item is not found, the library will contact the patron regarding replacement charges for the item(s). Each patron is allowed to have one claimed returned item waived.
- If a patron pays for a claimed returned item and later returns the item, the cost of the item may be refunded provided no more than six months have passed and the item is determined by staff to be in good condition.
- Once an item has been set to lost status it may not be set to claimed returned.

3.6. Lost or Damaged Materials

- Lost items: Once an item is marked lost the patron is responsible for the replacement cost of the item. A $10.00 processing fee is added if the item is turned over to the collection agency. The patron is also unable to renew or check out additional items. When an item is returned the patron is responsible for the processing fee. For items not returned, the patron must pay the original cost of the item and the processing fee.
- Damaged items: If a patron returns an item that is damaged and can no longer be used by the library, the patron is charged the original cost of the item.
- When the system sends a final notice for overdue, lost, or damaged material(s) it will list the replacement cost for each item and any associated fees. Initially, it will search the item record for the original cost of the item. If the system is unable to locate this information, it will automatically default to the amount assigned to that particular item type.
- Charges for some items, depending on title, may be changed from the default amount. For example, some nonfiction titles cost more than $17.00. This will be determined by the division head.
- Many series and sets of DVDs are sold as a unit. Loss of any part of these series or sets will result in a charge for the whole unit.
- If a patron pays for lost material and later returns the material, the cost of the material will be refunded to them, provided no more than six months have passed and the item is determined by staff to be in good condition. The $10.00 processing fee will not be refunded.
- The library accepts cash, checks, credit cards, or debit cards for lost materials. The library reserves the right to use the payment for lost materials in whatever manner it deems most suitable.
- Charges for damaged items are assessed on a case-by-case basis.

Charges for lost materials will be as follows:

14. CONFIDENTIALITY OF LIBRARY RECORDS

- 14.1. The policy of the Kearney Public Library is to ensure the privacy of the users of its services and to consider any library records to be confidential in nature.
- 14.2. Nebraska Legislature in 1983 amended Chapter 84, Section 84-712.05 of the Revised Statutes of Nebraska 1643 concerning records that may be withheld from the public. The records include those “kept by a publicly funded library which, when examined with or without other records, reveal the identity of any patron using the library’s materials or services.”
Section 84-712.05. Records which may be withheld from the public; enumerated. The following records, unless publicly disclosed in an open court, open administrative proceeding, or open meeting, or disclosed by a public entity pursuant to its duties, may be withheld from the public by the lawful custodian of the records: . . . (10) Records or portions of records kept by a publicly funded library which, when examined with or without other records, reveal the identity of any library patron using the library's materials or services;

In summary, the Kearney Public Library and staff may not disclose information about a cardholder’s record or use of the library to anyone other than the cardholder; except by court order or written permission from the cardholder. Persistent requests for this type of information should be directed to the library director or assistant director.
- 14.3. The library staff follows the American Library Association Code of Ethics which states: “We protect each user’s right to privacy and confidentiality with respect to information sought or received and resources consulted, borrowed, acquired or transmitted.”
- 14.4. Library records are for the sole purpose of protecting public property and are not to be used, directly or indirectly, to identify the types of materials used by individual library patrons. Under no circumstances will the library staff answer to a third party about what a patron of the library is reading or the kind of information requested, from the library's collection.
- 14.5. From the American Library Association, “Confidential library records should not be released or made available in any format to a federal agent, law enforcement officer, or other person unless a court order in proper form has been entered by a court of competent jurisdiction after a showing of good cause by the law enforcement agency or person seeking the records.” The library director and/or his/her designee will seek legal counsel from the city attorney’s office in the event of such request for the release of library records and will respond to the request according to advice of counsel.
- 14.6. The library director will resist the issuance or enforcement of any such process, order, or subpoena until a proper showing of good cause is made in a court of competent jurisdiction. Moreover, any cost incurred by the library in any search through patron records, even under court order, will be chargeable to the agency demanding such search.

- 14.7. When a library staff member contacts a patron via telephone regarding overdue materials or materials requested by an individual, the staff member will not leave specific item information with a third party or on an answering machine. Specific item information will be shared only with the person requesting the material.
- 14.8. Parent or guardian access to confidential information of a minor cardholder is restricted to information related to the payment of overdue fines or lost or damaged materials.

15. COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT

The Kearney Public Library supports a policy of full access to library materials as follows:

All materials in the collection may be used by anyone regardless of age.

Kearney Public Library recognizes the pluralistic nature of this community and the varied backgrounds and needs of all citizens, regardless of race, creed, or political persuasion. In a democratic society, patrons should feel free to explore any and all ideas in order to decide which are meaningful to them. Therefore, the library, within the limits of selection standards, chooses representative material espousing all points of view in all fields, including political, social, and religious. The Kearney Public Library believes that censorship is an individual matter and declares that while anyone is free to reject for oneself materials which do not meet with the individual's approval, one cannot exercise this right of censorship to restrict the freedom of others. The Kearney Public Library supports the right of each family to decide which items are appropriate for use by its children. Responsibility for a child's use of the library materials lies with his or her parent or guardian.

15.1. Selection Criteria

General criteria for selecting library materials include: (an item need not meet all of the criteria in order to be acceptable)

- Public demand, interest, or need
- Contemporary significance, popular interest, or permanent value
- Attention of critics or reviewers
- Prominence, authority, and/or competence of author or creator
- Timeliness of material
- Relation to the existing collection
- Statement of challenging, original, or alternative point of view
- Authenticity of historical, regional, or social setting
- Local or regional significance

15.2. Selection Policy

“Selection” refers to the process that determines which materials are added to the collection or retained in the collection. The ultimate responsibility for the selection of materials rests with the library director. The responsibility for selection is shared by the professional library staff.

- The library will maintain access to a collection of up-to-date selection tools to aid staff in the decision making process, such as reviewing services and catalogs of recommended purchases. Examples of these resources are: professional journals, collection development tools, and supporting electronic resources.
- The library will always strive to balance general demand with those of special group interests, and to actively work to present both sides of controversial subject matter in a balanced and fair manner.
- Public demand is a valid factor in materials selection. However, we also give consideration to the interests of the few patrons as well as the many.
- Patrons may request materials not found in the library collection. These requests will be considered for purchase and addition to the collection. Interlibrary loan services (see section 6) will be utilized to obtain requested materials if they are not purchased.
- Library staff is not able to purchase materials through telephone solicitation nor will they accept preview boxes from vendors.
- Duplicate titles are purchased for those deemed historically significant and/or as popular demand indicates.

15.3. Reconsideration of Library Material Policy

The choice of library materials by a library user is an individual matter. While a person may reject materials for oneself, he or she may not restrict access to those materials by other library users.

The Library recognizes that certain materials are controversial and that any given item may offend some library users. The procedures below have been developed to assure that the requests of those who disagree with the inclusion of specific items in the collection are handled in an attentive and consistent manner.

A library user who requests the reconsideration of library material will be referred immediately to the Director or the librarian in charge. This staff member will discuss the Collection Development Policy and the application of selection principles.

If a library user persists in requesting that an item be withdrawn from the collection, the Library's procedure for reconsideration will be carefully explained and followed.

The procedure for the reconsideration of library materials consists of the following:

- The library user must complete the Request for Reconsideration of Library Materials Form and submit it to the Library Director. This request may not be submitted anonymously. Only one item may be challenged at a time per library user.
- The Request for Reconsideration will be referred to a committee consisting of the Director, Assistant Director and another librarian who works with the age range and type of material being challenged to determine whether retention of the item would be in violation of the Collection Development Policy.
- The committee will reconsider the item using the general criteria of the Collection Development Policy and reviews from recognized sources, and then make a written decision.
- The Director will inform the Library Advisory Board of the committee's decision.
- The Director will respond in writing to the library user regarding the committee's decision. Committee members' comments will not be attributed, although brief quotes may be used in the Director's response.
- An appeal of this decision may be made to the Library Advisory Board. Such appeal shall not exceed two pages and should include copies of the original Request for Reconsideration of Library Materials Form and the committee's written recommendation. The Library Board will reconsider the decision based on whether or not the particular item conforms to the Collection Development Policy. The Advisory Board shall then make the final determination of the matter, notifying the library user in writing of this action, in a timely manner.

- The completed decision on reconsideration of a specific title shall remain in effect for three years.

During the review process the Library will take appropriate action to ensure that the item will continue to be available.

A copy of the “Request for Reconsideration” form is included in Appendix A.

Copies of the ALA Freedom to Read Statement, the ALA Freedom to View Statement, The ALA Code of Ethics, and The ALA Library Bill of Rights are included in Appendix B.

16. GIFTS

- 16.1. Gifts of books and other materials may be made directly to the library. The library does not accept materials that are not outright gifts and reserves the right to assign any of its materials wherever the need is greatest. Materials will be considered for addition to the library collection using the same principals of materials selection applied to items purchased for the library collection. (See Section 15).

All gifts of books and materials must be in useable physical condition. Due to limitations of space, money, and staff, the library reserves the right to accept or discard, at its discretion, any materials given to the library.

- 16.2. Gift materials not utilized for the library collection will be disposed of through sales and recycling as deemed appropriate by the library director.
- 16.3. Unrestricted gifts of money, lands, or property will be reviewed by the board before acceptance or rejection.
- 16.4. The library does not provide appraisals of gifts or potential gifts.

General:

- All meetings are free and open to the public. Once a reservation is made the name of the group or individual making the reservation will be listed on the public calendar on the library website.
- Keep all exits unlocked at all times. Open aisles must be maintained within the seating arrangement to provide clear access to exits.
- Attendance at meetings may not exceed the maximum number of people certified by the Fire Marshal as the occupancy limit for the room.
- Wireless Internet access is available in all meeting rooms. Projection unit and computers are available for use with advance notice; however, groups may use their own laptops.

ALA Freedom to Read Statement

Kearney Public Library endorses the following ALA Freedom to Read Statement.

The freedom to read is essential to our democracy. It is continuously under attack. Private groups and public authorities in various parts of the country are working to remove or limit access to reading materials, to censor content in schools, to label "controversial" views, to distribute lists of "objectionable" books or authors, and to purge libraries. These actions apparently rise from a view that our national tradition of free expression is no longer valid; that censorship and suppression are needed to counter threats to safety or national security, as well as to avoid the subversion of politics and the corruption of morals. We, as individuals devoted to reading and as librarians and publishers responsible for disseminating ideas, wish to assert the public interest in the preservation of the freedom to read.

Most attempts at suppression rest on a denial of the fundamental premise of democracy: that the ordinary individual, by exercising critical judgment, will select the good and reject the bad. We trust Americans to recognize propaganda and misinformation, and to make their own decisions about what they read and believe. We do not believe they are prepared to sacrifice their heritage of a free press in order to be "protected" against what others think may be bad for them. We believe they still favor free enterprise in ideas and expression.

These efforts at suppression are related to a larger pattern of pressures being brought against education, the press, art and images, films, broadcast media, and the Internet. The problem is not only one of actual censorship. The shadow of fear cast by these pressures leads, we suspect, to an even larger voluntary curtailment of expression by those who seek to avoid controversy or unwelcome scrutiny by government officials.

Such pressure toward conformity is perhaps natural to a time of accelerated change. And yet suppression is never more dangerous than in such a time of social tension. Freedom has given the United States the elasticity to endure strain. Freedom keeps open the path of novel and creative solutions, and enables change to come by choice. Every silencing of a heresy, every enforcement of an orthodoxy, diminishes the toughness and resilience of our society and leaves it the less able to deal with controversy and difference.

Now as always in our history, reading is among our greatest freedoms. The freedom to read and write is almost the only means for making generally available ideas or manners of expression that can initially command only a small audience. The written word is the natural medium for the new idea and the untried voice from which come the original contributions to social growth. It is essential to the extended discussion that serious thought requires, and to the accumulation of knowledge and ideas into organized collections.

We believe that free communication is essential to the preservation of a free society and a creative culture. We believe that these pressures toward conformity present the danger of limiting the range and variety of inquiry and expression on which our democracy and our culture depend. We believe that every American community must jealously guard the freedom to publish and to circulate, in order to preserve its own freedom to read. We believe that publishers and librarians have a profound responsibility to give validity to that freedom to read by making it possible for the readers to choose freely from a variety of offerings.

The freedom to read is guaranteed by the Constitution. Those with faith in free people will stand firm on these constitutional guarantees of essential rights and will exercise the responsibilities that accompany these rights.

We therefore affirm these propositions:

1. It is in the public interest for publishers and librarians to make available the widest diversity of views and expressions, including those that are unorthodox, unpopular, or considered dangerous by the majority.

Creative thought is by definition new, and what is new is different. The bearer of every new thought is a rebel until that idea is refined and tested. Totalitarian systems attempt to maintain themselves in power by the ruthless suppression of any concept that challenges the established orthodoxy. The power of a democratic system to adapt to change is vastly strengthened by the freedom of its citizens to choose widely from among conflicting opinions offered freely to them. To stifle every nonconformist idea at birth would mark the end of the democratic process. Furthermore, only through the constant activity of weighing and selecting can the democratic mind attain the strength demanded by times like these. We need to know not only what we believe but why we believe it.

2. Publishers, librarians, and booksellers do not need to endorse every idea or presentation they make available. It would conflict with the public interest for them to establish their own political, moral, or aesthetic views as a standard for determining what should be published or circulated.

Publishers and librarians serve the educational process by helping to make available knowledge and ideas required for the growth of the mind and the increase of learning. They do not foster education by imposing as mentors the patterns of their own thought. The people should have the freedom to read and consider a broader range of ideas than those that may be held by any single librarian or publisher or government or church. It is wrong that what one can read should be confined to what another thinks proper.

3. It is contrary to the public interest for publishers or librarians to bar access to writings on the basis of the personal history or political affiliations of the author.

No art or literature can flourish if it is to be measured by the political views or private lives of its creators. No society of free people can flourish that draws up lists of writers to whom it will not listen, whatever they may have to say.

4. There is no place in our society for efforts to coerce the taste of others, to confine adults to the reading matter deemed suitable for adolescents, or to inhibit the efforts of writers to achieve artistic expression.

To some, much of modern expression is shocking. But is not much of life itself shocking? We cut off literature at the source if we prevent writers from dealing with the stuff of life. Parents and teachers have a responsibility to prepare the young to meet the diversity of experiences in life to which they will be exposed, as they have a responsibility to help them learn to think critically for themselves. These are affirmative responsibilities, not to be discharged simply by preventing them from reading works for which they are not yet prepared. In these matters values differ, and values cannot be legislated; nor can machinery be devised that will suit the demands of one group without limiting the freedom of others.

- 5. It is not in the public interest to force a reader to accept the prejudgment of a label characterizing any expression or its author as subversive or dangerous.*

The ideal of labeling presupposes the existence of individuals or groups with wisdom to determine by authority what is good or bad for others. It presupposes that individuals must be directed in making up their minds about the ideas they examine. But Americans do not need others to do their thinking for them.

- 6. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large; and by the government whenever it seeks to reduce or deny public access to public information.*

It is inevitable in the give and take of the democratic process that the political, the moral, or the aesthetic concepts of an individual or group will occasionally collide with those of another individual or group. In a free society individuals are free to determine for themselves what they wish to read, and each group is free to determine what it will recommend to its freely associated members. But no group has the right to take the law into its own hands, and to impose its own concept of politics or morality upon other members of a democratic society. Freedom is no freedom if it is accorded only to the accepted and the inoffensive. Further, democratic societies are more safe, free, and creative when the free flow of public information is not restricted by governmental prerogative or self-censorship.

- 7. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians to give full meaning to the freedom to read by providing books that enrich the quality and diversity of thought and expression. By the exercise of this affirmative responsibility, they can demonstrate that the answer to a "bad" book is a good one, the answer to a "bad" idea is a good one.*

The freedom to read is of little consequence when the reader cannot obtain matter fit for that reader's purpose. What is needed is not only the absence of restraint, but the positive provision of opportunity for the people to read the best that has been thought and said. Books are the major channel by which the intellectual inheritance is handed down, and the principal means of its testing and growth. The defense of the freedom to read requires of all publishers and librarians the utmost of their faculties, and deserves of all Americans the fullest of their support.

We state these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake out a lofty claim for the value of the written word. We do so because we believe that it is possessed of enormous variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and keeping free. We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is unimportant. We believe rather that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.

ALA Freedom to View Statement

The FREEDOM TO VIEW, along with the freedom to speak, to hear, and to read, is protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. In a free society, there is no place for censorship of any medium of expression. Therefore these principles are affirmed:

1. To provide the broadest access to film, video, and other audiovisual materials because they are a means for the communication of ideas. Liberty of circulation is essential to insure the constitutional guarantee of freedom of expression.
2. To protect the confidentiality of all individuals and institutions using film, video, and other audiovisual materials.
3. To provide film, video, and other audiovisual materials which represent a diversity of views and expression. Selection of a work does not constitute or imply agreement with or approval of the content.
4. To provide a diversity of viewpoints without the constraint of labeling or prejudging film, video, or other audiovisual materials on the basis of the moral, religious, or political beliefs of the producer or filmmaker or on the basis of controversial content.
5. To contest vigorously, by all lawful means, every encroachment upon the public's freedom to view.

This statement was originally drafted by the Freedom to View Committee of the American Film and Video Association (formerly the Educational Film Library Association) and was adopted by the AFVA Board of Directors in February 1979. This statement was updated and approved by the AFVA Board of Directors in 1989.

ALA Code of Ethics

As members of the American Library Association, we recognize the importance of codifying and making known to the profession and to the general public the ethical principles that guide the work of librarians, other professionals providing information services, library trustees and library staffs.

Ethical dilemmas occur when values are in conflict. The American Library Association Code of Ethics states the values to which we are committed, and embodies the ethical responsibilities of the profession in this changing information environment.

We significantly influence or control the selection, organization, preservation, and dissemination of information. In a political system grounded in an informed citizenry, we are members of a profession explicitly committed to intellectual freedom and the freedom of access to information. We have a special obligation to ensure the free flow of information and ideas to present and future generations.

The principles of this Code are expressed in broad statements to guide ethical decision making. These statements provide a framework; they cannot and do not dictate conduct to cover particular situations.

- I. We provide the highest level of service to all library users through appropriate and usefully organized resources; equitable service policies; equitable access; and accurate, unbiased, and courteous responses to all requests.
- II. We uphold the principles of intellectual freedom and resist all efforts to censor library resources.
- III. We protect each library user's right to privacy and confidentiality with respect to information sought or received and resources consulted, borrowed, acquired or transmitted.
- IV. We respect intellectual property rights and advocate balance between the interests of information users and rights holders.
- V. We treat co-workers and other colleagues with respect, fairness, and good faith, and advocate conditions of employment that safeguard the rights and welfare of all employees of our institutions.
- VI. We do not advance private interests at the expense of library users, colleagues, or our employing institutions.
- VII. We distinguish between our personal convictions and professional duties and do not allow our personal beliefs to interfere with fair representation of the aims of our institutions or the provision of access to their information resources.
- VIII. We strive for excellence in the profession by maintaining and enhancing our own knowledge and skills, by encouraging the professional development of co-workers, and by fostering the aspirations of potential members of the profession.

Adopted at the 1939 Midwinter Meeting by the ALA Council; amended June 30, 1981; June 28, 1995; and January 22, 2008.

ALA Library Bill of Rights

The American Library Association affirms that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that the following basic policies should guide their services.

I. Books and other library resources should be provided for the interest, information, and enlightenment of all people of the community the library serves. Materials should not be excluded because of the origin, background, or views of those contributing to their creation.

II. Libraries should provide materials and information presenting all points of view on current and historical issues. Materials should not be proscribed or removed because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.

III. Libraries should challenge censorship in the fulfillment of their responsibility to provide information and enlightenment.

IV. Libraries should cooperate with all persons and groups concerned with resisting abridgment of free expression and free access to ideas.

V. A person's right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.

VI. Libraries which make exhibit spaces and meeting rooms available to the public they serve should make such facilities available on an equitable basis, regardless of the beliefs or affiliations of individuals or groups requesting their use.

Adopted June 19, 1939, by the ALA Council; amended October 14, 1944; June 18, 1948; February 2, 1961; June 27, 1967; January 23, 1980; inclusion of "age" reaffirmed January 23, 1996.
